

Interview Questions for Judith Glynn

1. Why did you write A Collector of Affections: Tales from a Woman's Heart?
2. Is there a targeted audience?
3. Was there anyone who was your inspiration for Leah Lynch, the main character and the man she met on the plane, Miguel Santiago?
4. In the book, you say "traveling alone is one of the most empowering things a single woman can do." Why do you feel that way?
5. What's the most important thing readers will learn from A Collector of Affections and talking to strangers on the road?
6. People listening to this often struggle with a sensual life as they age. What's your best advice on how they can deal with that?
7. When do you write? Is it easier to write in the morning or at night?
8. As a travel writer, what's your favorite country?
9. Where can we buy the book?